BENNY ZHANG

Hello,

I am very interested in the position as a developer it can be as a back-end developer, front-end developer or even as game developer or webeditor. I have recently graduated as an webeditor, information architecture with a focus on backend web development. I have a great interest in technology development and a burning passion for programming. I am also very interested in solving problems and continuously learning new things.

During my education, I have had the opportunity to learn a broad foundation in the program's main area, information architecture. I have learned both front-end and back-end as well as several different programming languages, systems and applications. I focused more on the back-end, I have knowledge in database management, database design and application interface. I have created a website together with a client (Golden Thai Tidaholm) and the tool that I used to create the website was WordPress. The website was designed according to their target groups and client needs. During the education, I focused more on the back-end, thus I have knowledge in database management, database design and application interface. Where I have built a database for a fictitious library. I have also created entity-relationship model to be able to see the whole structure of the database more easily and further simplify the implementation.

As a person, I am structured, flexible, purposeful and curious in my work. Takes initiative, person who always wants things done before stressful situations and supports others when they need help. I am a positive person with a high work ethic who enjoys learning new things and helping others. I enjoy working in teams but I am also used to working independently. I am a high performer, responsive and focus a lot on problem solving, whether at work or in my private life.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Sincerely, Benny Zhang
